

RMPH – 26 October 2017

Swedish team member, Arvid Steen

We: How did you find out about the RMPH contest?

Him: I'm not sure, our leader was contacted by email and he told us about it.

We: Is it your first time in Romania?

Him: Yes, it is.

We: And how is Bucharest for you?

Him: It's nice, there are a lot of cars, a lot of people smoke, and there are many beautiful buildings.

We: Do you believe this experience will help you make new friends?

Him: Yes, I believe so.

We: Are you nervous about the contest?

Him: A bit yes, I've looked up the older ones and they are quite hard, I hope I will do at least one right.

We: Good luck with the contest!

Serbia – Anastasia Ilici

We: Is it your first time in Romania?

Her: No, I've been here before in an excursion but it's my first time in Bucharest.

We: How is the city?

Her: It's great, it's like a bigger Belgrade, I like it.

We: How do you feel about the contest tomorrow, are you nervous?

Her: Um, no.

We: Good luck with the contest then!

Bosnia

We: Is this your first time in Romania?

Him: Yes.

We: Is this your first time at RMPH?

Him: Yes.

We: Are you considering a career in this area of expertise?

Him: I'd like to be a teacher so I can be able to make a positive difference on the future of children. For me, it is a challenge: stimulating the next generation to become lifelong learners like me and my friends are. I have always been grateful to the education system for implanting values in me, and at this juncture I feel I should contribute what I have learnt and experienced over the years. This way I will be paying back and at the same time can fulfill my desire of enhancing the education system.

We: Are you nervous about the contest?

Him: No, not really.

We: How do you like Bucharest so far?

Him: I really like it, it's similar to Sarajevo, but it's bigger and you have more sculptures. I like the architecture, I like the buildings.

We: Do you consider this contest has helped you make new friends from other countries?

Him: Not yet, but I'm sure that at the end I'll make some friends!

We: How have you enjoyed the whole experience so far?

Him: It was so nice to see this wonderful city and to meet our guides who seem like some really cool people.

We: Did the contest and the trip change you?

Him: Not yet, but I will be here in Bucharest for about a week and who knows what will happen!

Bulgaria

We: Is this your first time in Romania?

Him: No.

We: Is this your first time at RMPH?

Him: Yes.

We: Are you considering a career in this area of expertise?

Him: Yes, of course, but I don't know exactly what, maybe scientist, maybe like in Coldplay's song. I think that I am so young and I have so many opportunities that it's almost impossible to be sure about my future, I can't understand how some people, maybe even younger than me, know what they will do or what they want. At this age, I can dream and be realist at the same time, at this age I can do anything, I can even win this contest.

We: Are you nervous about the contest?

Him: A bit.

We: How do you like Bucharest so far?

Him: I like it very much, I like the old buildings, I don't know if you get this a lot or not, but you have a wonderful city. It seems like many people here are artists, or are interested in fashion, arts or spiritual things.

We: Do you consider this contest has helped you make new friends from other countries?

Him: Yes, actually from Romania. You have such nice guides!

We: How have you enjoyed the whole experience so far?

Him: Absolutely, I can't wait to visit this city, to meet new people and to experience new things.

We: Did the contest and the trip change you?

Him: Until now not so much, but hey, it's the first day so I have so much to experience, but this opening ceremony was amazing! I really enjoyed it, congratulations, you were amazing!

Thank you all for these answers, it was awesome to speak with people like you and we wish you all the best of luck!
